Abstract (en)

The display unit comprises a support (20) for the article on show, combined with a winder (10) for an electrical wire attached to a detector (12) which is connected to a central alarm system. The winder and support have matching surfaces (16, 32) which engage with one another to hold the two components together. The support has two side walls (22, 23) fixed to a flat base (21) and made with slightly inclined front edges (24, 25) and concave recesses (26, 27) at the bottom. The winder is made with a front aperture (15) for the electric wire from the detector, and has projecting lateral edges (16) engaging with grooves (32) at the back of the support.
