Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0892138A2] The sleeve rail (5) covers a groove (2) of the casement or leaf for the longitudinally movable driving rod mounted on the rail and fitted with locking pieces. The rail is fixed to a V-sectioned holder (7), the elastic U-shaped arms (8) of which extend to the sidewalls of the groove and rest against them. The arms produce frictional connection along the groove. The holder rests flat on the base (21) of the groove. The arms have a rectangular or square cross-section and are initially positioned on the face sides at right-angles to the rail.
