Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0892469A2] The luminaire structure, which comprises a base body (1) and an appropriate diffuser (2), between which two chambers (3) and (4) are established by means of a pan-shaped partition wall (5), includes an independent socket (6) which may be snap-fitted to the base body (1), which socket (6) has through holes for wall fixing screws (9) and catches or like means for fixing one or several electric connectors (10), making up a sort of strip with grub screws (11) for fixing the relevant leads. When fitting the luminaire, the socket (6) is first of all fixed to the wall, the leads are then connected to the grub screws (11) of the connectors (10), and thereafter the rest of the luminaire parts are snap-fitted onto the socket (6).
