Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0896084A1] The radiator (10) has a rail (12) for towels and garments, which can be moved relative to the radiator using at least one moving section (20,24,26). The radiator (10) has one or, preferably, two heating surfaces arranged in one plane so that the rail is provided at the upper area of a heating surface or between two heating faces. The radiator may have two vertical collector pipes (11) with horizontal heating pipes between the collector pipes, so that the rail is set between the two heating pipes. The moving section may comprise swivel arms through which the rail can move in and out of the plane of the heating section.
