Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0897681A2] The ferrule plate comprises a plate part (12) and at least one door strip (14) which is adjustably attached to the plate part and onto which a door (10) is mounted. The door is detachably mounted to the door strip by holders (18) and associated locking bars (16). The holders and the strips are held in a defined position relative to each other through centring cams (40) that mate with counter-profiles (42) and the space between them is adjusted by the locking bars.
