Abstract (en)
[origin: FR2758249A1] The invention concerns an assembly of modular mattresses convertible into an armchair and vice-versa consisting of a set of two modular mattresses of the same length, width and thickness respectively, convertible into an armchair (and vice-versa), in which the four modules of the first, corresponding two by two, are placed vertically to constitute the two arms (A and C) and the rear (B + D) of the armchair, and the three modules of the second constitute the base for the first two (E and F) superposed horizontally, and the back for the third (G) vertically arranged. The resulting armchair is made rigid by means of a belt (c) enclosing it, characterised by its dimensions and passages.
