Abstract (en)

[origin: WO9823303A1] In an ambient fragrance dispenser that can be suspended from a hook, the two protective sheaths can be drawn apart or pressed together to vary the size of the exposed, visible evaporating surface of the substrate impregnated with odoriferous substances and located within the protective sheaths, which are provided with an inner coating. The amount of odoriferous substances evaporated within a room or vehicle can thus be individually adjusted.
