Abstract (en)
[origin: FR2758703A1] The invention concerns a disposable mug of any form, dimensions or material, characterised in that it has two associated and integrated parts forming a set, a mug (1) and a peripheral strip (2). The peripheral strip (2) integrated in the mug (1) or directly mounted on it is designed for penetrating inside a water or drink dispensing machine for cutting across an optic beam to cause the liquid to flow out. The mug with strip can be used exclusively with the dispensing machine specially designed for its use.
