Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0911264A1] Through a well circumscribed - especially in width - race (2), a continuous label tape (3) is driven until it brings its external edge (19) in cross-alignment with any products having an elongated shape (6), such as for instance and in particular salami with an irregular surface development. Small pliers (30), integral with one of the rotary pliers (25), for grasping the product (6), engages with the external edge (19) of the label, during the rotation of said pliers (25) and the product (6) engaged in the same, wraps the label around the latter, keeping always and in any case said label self-aligned, independently on the irregularity of the surface of said product. <IMAGE>
