Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0916295A1] The therapeutic pillow has a saddle shape with a trough surface structured on two directions for sleeping on the side and on the back. The therapeutic pillow has a saddle-shaped upper surface, forming a trough (13) on one cross section direction with side edge beadings (14,15). A flat/convex center beading is formed on another cross section direction at right angles to the first. The pillow, aligned on the first cross section direction, is for when lying on the side and, when aligned on the other direction, is for lying on the back.
