Abstract (en)
[origin: WO9851386A1] The invention relates to a doll stand with a support part (2) which, when the stand is in use, extends upwards between the doll's legs, vertically to its lower body. Said support part (2) is joined by its top end to the carrying part (3), said carrying part being attached to the doll's lower body by adhesion. The bottom end of the support part (2) is inserted into a holder which is set in the presentation plate. An internal screw thread and headless pin are located in the lower section of said holder for attaching and adjusting the height of the support part.
