Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0928928A2] A gas-cooking apparatus includes a plurality of burners arranged on a plate (1) at holes (2) communicating with the relevant gas supply ducts (6) located below said plate (1), and each of the burners includes a ring (3) abutting from above into the relevant hole (2) and having a lower tooth (4) which achieves a bayonet coupling by engaging a corresponding seat (5) formed on the end portion of the supply duct (6). The engaging and disengaging of the ring (3) are carried out by means of a key (9) which engages notches (10) formed on the internal surface of the ring. <IMAGE>
