Abstract (en)

[origin: DE19635212A1] The invention relates to a stick, in particular for street hockey, comprising a handle and a striking surface at an angle and a distance from it. The aim of the present invention is to provide a completely new type of stick. To do this the striking surface (2) of the stick has approximately the same shape and/or size as a tennis racket or similar sticks. According to the invention similar sticks means squash and badminton rackets and table tennis bats etc., i.e. sticks with a relatively large striking surface.
