Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0936339A1] The door (2) integrated in with door opening can be rolled up together with the grille of roller-door. The door is in at least three interlinked sections (3,4,5). The first door section is linked to one side of the door opening. The last door section at least consists of several bolt elements (6) fitting into complementary bolt-holders on the other side of the door when the door is closed. At least one lock (8) locks the connection between the first (3) and second (4) door sections.
