Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0937428A2] The frame has at least two longitudinal spaced-apart supports (1) and a number of transverse sprung slats (3), supported by spring elements (2). The contact point (5) between the spring elements and the sprung slats is staggered inwards in relation to the ends (4) of the sprung slats and towards the longitudinal center (6) of the frame. The sprung slats are secured so that they do not shift in relation to the sprung elements, by a pin (10) wedging into a sleeve-shaped cavity (11).
