Abstract (en)

A preforming device that can be used on machines for making pods (1) containing products for infusion comprises, close to a forming head (14), means (15) for feeding a web (6) along a feed line (L), operating in the zone of the web (6) located between the forming head (14) and a pressing chamber (13), when the forming head (14) is in a non-operating position; said means (15) feed an extra section (T6) of the web (6) towards the pressing chamber (13), then release the web (6) when the forming head (14) moves into an operating position, allowing correct forming of the lower half of the pod (1) without inducing stresses on the lower web. <IMAGE>
