Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0945350A1] The system brings the containers and the products to an operator who packs the products in the containers. The containers carry machine-readable labels. Each packing operation commences with identifying the container (230) and the operator (200). This information is collected centrally (270, 280, 310) and regrouped to include information (220) on the contents of each container.
