Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0956803A2] The object has a socket (1) with a first connection arrangement (16) for mounting on a wall or similar and an upper part attached to it with a second connection arrangement for connection to the first connection arrangement. The upper part has a shaft section with a central axis and a foot section contg. the second connection arrangement, which connects to the first transversely to the central axis. The upper part is held axially on the socket by shape locking after the connection is made. A cap with casing and head sections has an opening matching the outer contours of the shaft section and can be slid on the shaft section into an end position in which it covers the socket and the foot section, leaving at least part of the shaft section free to prevent separation of the connection arrangements. It can be retracted to allow separation.
