Abstract (en)

[origin: WO9830137A1] Holder, for example for flowers, comprising a foot, from which the actual holder extends upwards, in the position of use. The holder wall consists of an elastomer which has a stiffness which is such that the wall retains its shape at room temperature. On the other hand, this material is sufficiently flexible for it to be possible to impart different shapes to the holder depending on the wishes of the user. Particularly if the holder wall is folded over, it is advantageous to make the holder conical.
