Abstract (en)
[origin: WO9924191A1] A screw thread having a threadform comprising a ridge (21) rising from root (23) to crest (26) with the crest having two peaks (27, 28) separated by a through (29) the depth of which is less than the height of the ridge from root to crest. It has particular use as a screw for timber, and is especially suited to fixing railway rails to sleepers.
