Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0958760A2] A guide rail (11) is fixed into the body of the furniture (12) for receiving a runner (15) mounted in one side of the drawer (16). The runner is moved on rollers (17) along a track in a profiled rail (13) at one or both ends of the guide arrangement (10). The area of the profiled rail engaging with the runner has at least one region displaced from the vertical so that it extends in the direction of the lateral forces that occur in the arrangement when the runner is placed under load.
