Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0964377A2] The method involves the person wearing a device with a unit for automatic location of the person's position. There is a transmitter and a receiver in the station, for wireless reception of the signals transmitted by the transmitter, and for evaluation of the signals so that the person can be assisted on raising the alarm. The arrangement includes a digital mini-camera worn at the front of the person that takes at least one image of the attacker, when it is manually or automatically activated. The image is transmitted to the receiver.
