Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0965291A2] The chair with seat area (10), back (14), and four legs (12) is made all in a piece of a firm plastic material with a narrow transversally pointed area (16) between seat part (10) and back (14), acting as a rotation axis. The bow-shaped armrests (20) are swivel mounted to both sides of the back (14) and to an adjustment mechanism located behind a cover (24) underneath the seat area (10). When the armrests (20) are simultaneously raised and pulled to the front a lever (27) moves along a longitudinal slot (26) and engages automatically in one of two possible positions.
