Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0965550A1] The stop has a base carrier (5) with a batten-form basic setting contact (12) on the opening side. The stop consists of two parts (e.g. 8) of the same length extending across the width of the pocket on the base body (6) to form a central division on the endface side. Each part has two independent endface setting devices for the fine adjustment of the stop part between a basic position against the contact and a remote position further along the pocket.
