Abstract (en)
The applicator consists of a layer of a supple porous material having at least one portion of one face impregnated with a cosmetic product, and the opposite face covered by an impermeable film. The applicator consists of a layer (1) of a supple porous material having at least one portion (2) of one face (1a) impregnated with a cosmetic product, and the opposite face covered by an impermeable film (3). The first face has at least one zone (4) of its peripheral area which is not impregnated with the product, the zone being designed for gripping the applicator and/or spreading the applied product. The cosmetic product can be applied by serigraphy or molding on the porous layer, which can be a woven or non-woven fabric or an open-pore cellular material.
