Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0976339A1] The plug-in fastening comprises a U-sectioned reception part (1) into which fits the plug-in part (2). The outer wall of the plug-in part has a molded inwardly sprung snap-in plate (17) with a surface (18) pointing in a direction contrary to the insertion direction. The transverse wall (4) of the reception part possesses a hole (7) matching the snap-in surface and with opposite facing surface into which the snap-in surface automatically locks. Preferred Features: A second inwardly sprung detent lug (22) is positioned on the insertion part as an extension to the first snap-in plate. The lug has a matching hole (8) in the transverse wall of the reception part.
