Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0984111A1] A lightweight wall divider system, e.g. for separating rooms in a cellar or in a storage area, has thin wall panels reinforced by a ribbed pressing. The upright sides of the panels are located into profiled support strips (8) and the edges are held by spring clips (22) inside the supports. The wall height can be built up by several panels which lock over each other via the ribbed profiles. The upper and lower ends of the upright supports are fastened to fittings on the roof and on the floor.
