Abstract (en)

[origin: WO9847130A1] The present invention describes an arrangement for a shopping cart comprising a panel for the display of advertisements/information. More specifically the invention relates to an information supporting sheet which is fastened at its one edge portion to a roller which is integrated in a sleeve, the information supporting surface in a first position being able to be rolled up on the roller, and in a second position being able to be drawn partially or wholly out of the roller since in such a drawn out position it shows the advertisements/information which it carries.
