Abstract (en)

[origin: WO9854979A1] A device is described for preparing soft ice-cream, milk shakes and related products. This device comprises at least a first space (5) for receiving and storing the soft-ice-cream or milk shake constituents, and a second space (9) coupled to the first space and substantially intended for further cooling of said constituents. The device moreover comprises temperature regulating means (16, 19) which can be controlled such that the first and the second space can be cooled respectively heated independently of each other.
