Abstract (en)
A modular countertop is disclosed. The modular countertop permits individuals to mix countertop components and achieve a desired aesthetic effect. The modular countertop includes at least a first longitudinal extending countertop component and a second longitudinally extending countertop component. The first countertop component includes a first connecting member and the second countertop component includes a second connecting member, wherein the first connecting member and the second mating member selectively and securely couple the first and second countertop components together when the first and second connecting members are properly joined. <IMAGE>
