Abstract (en)
[origin: US6302043B1] The invention relates to a discovery boat (1) with a viewing cabin located beneath the surface of the water. Said viewing cabin has large viewing windows looking out to the side and forwards. According to the invention, the viewing cabin is a transparent vessel which is open from above and which is located in an opening of a deck, said deck extending between two floating bodies (2). This ensures a simple, versatile construction.
