Abstract (en)
[origin: WO9905933A1] The invention relates to a comb (1) for fixing hairpieces or accessories in the hair, comprising a support (10) and pin-like comb elements (20, 200). Said comb elements are fixed to the support next to each other, in such a way that their position in relation to each other is adjustable. The comb elements are arranged on the support at intervals from one another by means of elastic elements (41) in such a way that they can move in the longitudinal direction of said support. At least one clamping device (30A, 30B) is provided on the support for pushing the comb elements together against the elastic force of the elastic elements. Said clamping element is released to part the comb elements again.
