Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1013346A1] The holder arrangement includes a housing section with a wall section(2) ending in a free upper edge and which on the rear side covers a space(33) which accommodates a part of the gun(10). A recess(3) which is open at the top extends downwards in the wall section and leads into the rear space and cross sectionally encompasses the gun in its held state. The gun by gravity force rests by its holding element(21) against a stop face(2a) on the inner side of the wall. Independent claims are included for a holder body in which at least one of the wall sections has a recess open at the top to support the gun, and for a compressed air gun with a holder element in the form of a flat annular disc projecting at right angles to its longitudinal direction.
