Abstract (en)
The invention provides a stud 20 for a frame for a wall in the form of a channel member comprising a pair of opposed flanges 24 extending from a web 22, the stud being swaged over a middle portion 28 so that the spacing between the flanges is less than elsewhere on the stud. The invention also provides a noggin 30 for use with the stud, in the form of a channel member comprising a pair of opposed flanges 34 having extensions 40 the ends of the web for fitting over the swaged middle portion of the stud. The invention also includes a frame for a wall made from the studs and noggins and a method of constructing a wall using the studs and noggins. <IMAGE> <IMAGE>
