Abstract (en)

[origin: WO9916302A1] The invention relates to litter primarily consisting of cellulose material. With regard to the initial crushed cellulose material, 2 to 6 volume percent of bentonite or clay material having at least a 50 % smectite content are added. The mixture is moistened and compacted into litter through small holes. The inventive product has a high resistance to clumping, is very absorbent and is especially suited for use as cat litter.
