Abstract (en)
[origin: WO9921112A1] The invention concerns electronic appliances authorised by a confidential code, and operating with cards or keys, sensitive to movements, read by sensors or capable of being GPS-connected, for providing by reading (also of the card or key), the amount of insurance used, thereby enabling the subscriber to pay a reasonable price. Several embodiments can be envisaged, all equipped with crystal liquid displays and digital keyboard. It is also possible to produce them on an industrial scale.
