Abstract (en)
  [origin: WO9917520A1] A method for directory assistance in a geographic region in which local calls are serviced using multiple area codes (16, 18) begins in response to a directory assistance inquiry (10) by a caller. The inquiry is processed (12) by locating a destination number having an associated area code. An audible response is then communicated to the caller in the form of the destination number followed by the area code (20).
