Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1028395A1] On a vehicle at least a miniaturized camera (1) is installed that has a field of view at least equal to that of the driver. When the vehicle is running, the camera records and stores (4) the images that appear before it for a prefixed period of time, after which said images are canceled from those taken after a subsequent period of equal duration, and so on. The cycle repeats during the running of the vehicle and stops only if an external event occurs that blocks its working. When the vehicle is parked, said device can be used as an anti-breaking means. <IMAGE>
