Abstract (en)

Section bar for support columns for shelter roofings and similar coverings, as well as for other uses, comprising an internally hollow vertical column (11), at least a removable head cap (13) adapted to be applied on top of said column (11), and at least a lower base (15) adapted to be applied on to the lower portion of said column (11) so as to enable said column section bar to rest thereupon and be fixed to the ground. The column (11) is constituted by the assembly of at least an inner pole (18) adapted to be fixed to the ground, and at least a shaped enclosing structure (19) arranged and fixed concentrically around said inner pole (18) and provided with coupling means (25, 30; 34) adapted to enable component parts of various kinds to be removably joined together in different positions and arrangements in view of building structures for various applications. <IMAGE>
