Abstract (en)

[origin: FR2787685A1] The key has a head (3) and a stem (30), the head being able to move in a case between a first position in which the stem is located in the case volume and a second position where the stem extends outside the case, The key head has a tab (11) for locking the key in the first position. A return spring (7) moves the key from this position to the second position when the locking tab is withdrawn, by a pushbutton (13), to release the key.
