Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1036516A1] In a machine (1) for pulling over and lasting an upper on a corresponding shoe form with which an insole is associated, the means for supplying the glue onto the insole comprise a supply plate (19) formed by two segments (19a) which are hingeably joined together so as to be hingeably adjustable and provided with a plurality of nozzles (20) for supplying the glue along the contour (27) of the front portion of the insole. The abovementioned means for supplying the glue comprise two further nozzles (22) which are movable so as to follow the contour of the insole starting from the supply plate (19). <IMAGE> <IMAGE>
