Abstract (en)
[origin: DE19906990A1] A steam-cooking apparatus, especially steam-baking oven with a baking oven muffle, has a steam-cooking device for steam-cooking food in the cooking chamber of the apparatus. It comprises a lighting device located in the cooking chamber to illuminate the cooking chamber and/or a fan for the circulating air or heating air operation. The steam-cooking apparatus has a control device by which the lighting device and/or the fan can be controlled automatically for an operation of the steam-cooking apparatus with a minimal energy supply requirement for the cooking temperature.. The lighting device and/or the fan can be switched off, pulsed on and off or run with reduced power for an operation of the steam-cooking apparatus with a minimal energy supply requirement for the cooking temperature.
