Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1038489A2] The shower cabin has at least one vertical column (16) at the side, which is connected to at least one cross-piece (17) projection over the shower unit. The column and the cross-piece have different cross-sections. At their joint, the column and cross-piece are each cut at an angle having a similar contour. Each angle is different from the half-angle between the column and the cross-piece.
