Abstract (en)

[origin: US6290899B1] A converter plant with a sealing ring provided between the hood of a tiltable converter and the mouth of a smoke gas flue, drives are provided, for moving the sealing ring can be moved so far away from the converter hood that the converter can be tilted without obstruction. At the same time, the sealing ring is designed as a sleeve which surrounds the smoke gas flue from outside. The mouth of the sleeve is capable, in the closing position, of leaning against the converter hood the and the sleeve has vertical severing cuts which divide the sleeve into at least two segments.
