Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1045058A1] The product(1) has a flat knitted section(2) with a side edge(3) connected to a knitted flat tube. The tube(4) is seamless a is knitted onto the flat section to form an integral structure. An Independent claim is made for a process for producing the knitted product using a double bar machine producing a front t wall(4a) and separate rear tube wall(4b) which are joined at the side edges by common cords. In the same knitting stage and on t same machine a flat single or double knitted section(2) is produced alongside the tube. The side edges of the flat section are tidied up with right and left cords and the tube edges of the tube facing the flat material and the edge of the flat section adjoining the tube are joined with a single common thread.
