Abstract (en)

[origin: WO9936610A1] An improved process for cleaning fabrics in a conventional automatic clothes dryer wherein a plastic bag is formed from a blend of at least one nylon homopolymer and at least one nylon copolymer. Preferably the nylon homopolymer is nylon 6 and the nylon copolymer is nylon 6/66 copolymer. The process includes placing soiled fabrics in the plastic bag, placing the plastic bag into the drum of the dryer, and rotating the dryer with the introduction of hot air. This invention also relates to bags formed from such blends which are used in home dry cleaning processes.
