Abstract (en)

[origin: DE19802571A1] The invention relates to a cooking top with a vitroceramic cooking surface having several burners and control elements as well as display elements assigned thereto which each have a luminous element arranged below the vitroceramic cooking surface. According to the invention a display symbol mask is positioned between the vitroceramic cooking surface and the luminous element. As a result of said display symbol mask, a display symbol corresponding to the display symbol mask is visible from above through the vitroceramic cooking surface when the luminous element is in operation.
