Abstract (en)
An improved chair structure is described and comprises a body (1) which defines a lower part (2) in turn including a seat (3), a lower backrest portion (5), and two arms (4a, 4b), and an upper part including an upper backrest portion (6). The upper backrest portion is articulated to the lower portion (2) in the region of the arms (4a, 4b) so as to be movable between an operative position in which it constitutes an extension of the lower backrest portion (5) and an inoperative, transportation position in which it is arranged substantially parallel to the seat (3). <IMAGE>
