Abstract (en)

An apparatus (100) is proposed for separating and picking out one of a plurality of piled up thin board type objects (20). This apparatus includes a projection (130) and a suction pad (134) both provided above the piled up objects. The projection is made in contact with the objects moved up from below to thereby push each of the objects in the horizontal direction. The suction pad sticks fast to the top of the objects moved by the projection, and picks it out. <IMAGE>
