Abstract (en)
[origin: DE19819749A1] A spooling device (1) for continually arriving threads or similar has at least one package holder (3) for receiving several package tubes. Said package holder (3) is fixed at one end, with the package tubes being arranged on the holder or removed from it via the second, free end. The spooling device also has a support (5) which engages with the free end of the at least one package holder which is in an operating position.
